Christmas, Congress and Health Care

Today is a big Obamacare day. Judge O'Connor told the Attorneys General from 16 Democratic states and D.C. that they have until today to respond to certain items in the latest Obamacare lawsuit that he hasn't yet ruled on.

So here we are at Christmas time with our life and liberty on the line again. Some of you know that the U.S. Senate voted on Christmas Eve in 2009 to pass Obamacare. Others remember that Ted Kennedy's HMO Act of 1973 was voted on six days before Christmas and signed into law four days after Christmas. Thus we have the power of health plans today who collaborate with government to limit access to care. What is it about Christmas, Congress and health care?
