Lawless President Attempts Unlawful Lawmaking

President Obama must think he’s king. Although his party lost the election, and his signature act is under siege by both parties, he’s still handing down Obamacare edicts. The latest are in a proposed regulation approximately 95,000 words long. For example, he’s trying to mandate that large employers provide more coverage than the law requires.

That’s a violation of the Constitution. Regulators cannot create new law. His administration is also telling insurers to give new enrollees 30 days to continue to use the doctor in their former network. That unlawful lawmaking will increase all our premiums. There appears to be no end to what this lawless president thinks he can do. Congress must work to stop him.
