Congress' Plan to Undo Obamacare

It’s a new year with a new Congress. Last year President Obama said he planned to go it alone, and we’ve watched that in action through executive order after executive order. Republicans in charge need to defend Americans from Obama’s overreach, but they also need their own agenda. A top item already on that agenda is repeal of Obamacare.

Senator Mitch McConnell, the new majority leader, has a staff working to figure how to undo Obamacare through reconciliation, a special process they would get one chance to use. But bills to repeal Obamacare should also be introduced and voted on. Let’s see how scared Democrats are for their prospects in 2016 if Obamacare is still the law.
