The End of Catastrophic Coverage

President Obama once promised: “If you like your health insurance, you can keep it.” But the deeper I look into Obamacare, the more I know this is not true. Here are just three reasons:

Number One: Some insurers have already closed their doors and some employers have said they are planning to discontinue employee coverage.

Number Two: Obamacare strictly prohibits catastrophic coverage policies, so if you have one, you'll have to say good-bye before 2014.

Number Three: The requirement that the health plan spend 80% of every premium dollar on care is going to abolish most if not all Health Savings Accounts where most care is paid for by the patient not the health plan.
