What is an Exchange?

Here is the question I regularly get. What exactly is an Exchange? This is a good question, because the exchange has been called the centerpiece of Obamacare. In short, it is a federal takeover center to implement Obamacare. In our last enews we gave links to our new series of brief descriptions called “Exchange Realities.”

Every exchange must follow federal law, so we used the Minnesota contract and legislation to tell the story. Find the link in the top slider of our home page or email us and ask. We also have several diagrams that have been called “scary good” because they demonstrate how the exchange is a large government bureaucracy under federal control, not a marketplace.
