Shameless Electioneering By Obama

President Obama now says everyone whose insurance policy has been cancelled can keep it all the way through the next presidential election. This latest postponement of his signature act is shameless electioneering and unprecedented lawlessness. He has no authority to change the law on a whim.

Some claim that he’s doing this because he doesn’t like his own law. Oh no. He loves his law. He’s just perturbed that the rollout has put him and his party in such peril. If he didn’t like Obamacare, he would agree to repeal it. But no, he’s simply trying to make sure Democrats stay in power in this election and the next so that the law can be fully and painfully imposed in 2017.
