March 25, 2014

What Are the Real Obamacare Numbers?

The Obama administration has desperately been trying to sign people up for Obamacare exchange coverage. But Obama’s popularity is a fading thing. He’s had to use basketball stars, Ellen DeGeneres, and appear on a Funny or Die video, which made him appear anything but presidential. But the administration claims now to have 5 million enrollees.

That’s doubtful. Insurers say 15 – 20 percent haven’t paid. And there’s no guarantee that those who have paid will keep paying. If they don’t, the law requires them to be kicked out after three months. Meanwhile the federal government plans to pay $52 million for marketing the first three months of this year.