Let's Hope the Technology Fails

I was at a major D.C. conference on health insurance exchanges. Federal officials, tax experts, technology gurus, and insurers discussed the fate of Obama's exchanges – the federal takeover centers. This is the most complex IT system ever foisted upon the nation and more than $2 billion later, they're not sure it's going to work.

One official said he hopes it'll be a second-world experience when it comes online October 1st. Another hopes it won't be a third-world experience. A state exchange director said "no one's sleeping" and no one's comfortable. Despite federal claims of everything being on schedule, I heard lots of worry. Let's hope the technology fails.

AHIP Exchange Conference, Washington D.C., March 14 – 15, 2013.
