Obama’s March to Medical Tyranny

I have found Obama’s overarching health care agenda. A proposed rule says a Medicare price control experiment on patients would be consistent with their “broader strategy to encourage better care, smarter spending and healthier people by paying providers and suppliers for what works, unlocking health care data, and finding new ways to coordinate and integrate care to improve quality.”

Let that sink in. This is government-speak for intruding in your private life, controlling your doctor’s treatment decisions, conducting research at the bedside, and putting non-physicians in charge. So what presidential candidate will end this dangerous march to medical tyranny that Obama has begun?

Found on page 9 in proposed rule:
