$100/day Contraception Fines

What will happen if employers refuse to comply with Obama’s contraception mandate? The Congressional Research Service has a very serious answer. They said insurers and employers that do not comply with the mandate could face federal fines of $100 per day per employee. If an employer has 100 employees, that’s $10,000 a day. Under the rule individuals could also sue their employers.

This, as I’ve said before, is just the tip of the federal command and control structure of Obamacare. If Obama succeeds in forcing this down our throats and past our conscience, there is no end to the offensive mandates to come.

“Contraception rule could lead to $100 fines, Hill report says.” J. Lester Feder, Politico, Feb 28, 2012.
