Exchanges - Eliminating the Marketplace

Markets are the free exchange of a wide range of goods and services at a price agreeable to the buyer and the seller. The health care marketplace has suffered since Medicare. To save the U.S. Treasury from the cost of free health care for seniors, Congress should have shut down Medicare. Instead, they built a rationing system called the HMO – which is now the “health plan.”

Obamacare gives the entire market to health plans. If Obamacare is not repealed the true marketplace will be gone. Government officials want us to believe Obama’s exchanges are the new marketplace. Not true. See why at NOTaMarketplace.com. And if you want a notamarketplace.com billboard in your state, let me know.
