

Citizens' Council for Health Freedom

Health Freedom Minute

April 23, 2015

Medical Schools Training Doctors to be System Doctors

The Wall Street Journal reports: “As the needs of the health-care system change, the way doctors are trained is changing too.” National Public Radio says, “One big shift at many schools is a focus on how the entire health system works – rather than just training doctors how to treat patients.”

Thus, medical schools are training doctors to become system doctors with one eye on what the system requires of them, including checkboxes and myriad reporting requirements. They’ll be a part of a team, no longer the leader of the team. This is the new team-based ethic, which uses computers to harmonize care. Find yourself a doctor who stays in charge and is focused on you.

“Medical Schools Reboot For 21st Century.” Julie Rovner, National Public Radio, April 9, 2015.

“Med Schools Aren’t What They Used to Be.” Melinda Beck, The Wall Street Journal, February 17, 2015.

“Training New Doctors for the System.” Twila Brase, CCHF eNews, Citizens’ Council for Health Freedom, April 15, 2015.

Presented daily by Twila Brase, President, Citizens’ Council for Health Freedom.

The Health Freedom Minute is now heard in 41 states: Mornings M-Th at AM1280 (The Patriot) in MN and 91.5 AM WHKC (FreedomFM) in OH, afternoons on American Family Radio, and daily on the Bott Radio Network.