April 9, 2014

We Can Fix the Pre-Existing Condition Problem

We can fix the pre-existing condition problem. It stems from employer-sponsored coverage and family coverage. If you get a condition while covered with either, you’ll be stuck with a pre-existing condition when you lose that coverage. You may lose it because of age, marriage, job change, loss of job or illness that forces you to leave your job.

We should own our own private policies, preferrably at conception. It should only cover medical catastrophes so it would be affordable. It should be lifelong and renewable and portable and useful wherever you live. We should pay cash for routine and minor care. This is where we must go when Obamacare is repealed.