Congress Cures Act Would Kill Privacy

This week the U.S. House Energy and Commerce Committee plans to vote on the 21st Century Cures Act. This 302-page bill sounds nice but is actually a plan to end medical privacy. The bill aims to define all research using your private medical records as “health care operations” and “public health activities.”

Under HIPAA, if the access to the data is for either of those activities, no patient consent is required. Thus, corporations and government agencies would be authorized to analyze you, your family and your doctors without your consent. Tell the Committee to protect privacy and vote no on the 21st Century Cures Act. For more details go to cchfreedom.org
