Get This Kind of Doctor

Let me tell you about Dr. Brenda Arnett in West Virginia. She dropped all contracts with insurance companies and with government. She only accepts cash or credit cards, still makes house calls, takes patient calls around the clock and sometimes adjusts her fees for patients whose finances are tight. She tries not to see more than 12 patients a day, and never schedules a patient for less than 30 minutes. Some patients come 90 miles to see her.

One patient said: “Paying her up front doesn’t matter to me at all. The level of care that I get is worth twice what she’s charging.” Most of these doctors only have 600 patients. Consider finding a cash-based clinic and getting in while you can.
