Obama's Organizing Machine Set to Push ACA

Organizing for Action, according to their website, “is a nonprofit organization established to support President Obama in achieving enactment of the national agenda Americans voted for on Election Day 2012.” They say they will mobilize citizens and speak out for speedy passage and effective implementation of Obama’s programs on gun violence, immigration reform and climate change.

They must have thought they had Obamacare in the bag. However, last week POLITICO reported that OFA is planning its first national television ad buy to promote Obamacare. They have added 811 community organizer volunteers to help push the Obamacare agenda nationwide.
