Will EHRs Be Used For Chinese Cyber Espionage?

The Office of Personnel Management was hacked into exposing data on four million former and current federal employees including sensitive data from background checks. Officials suspect the Chinese group that hacked into Anthem’s eighty (80) million records, exposing the health insurance details of 1.4 million of these federal employees.

One expert says “China is everywhere…. looking to gain social and economic and political advantage” in the U.S. But what if the personal data is used for espionage or to convince certain Americans to betray their country? And knowing this, why is Congress pushing electronic health records for all and why has the vast and insecure Obamacare database not been shut down? Our national security is at risk.
