Congress Introduces the Cutting Costly Codes Act

Six members of Congress have a bill to stop the costly and intrusive ICD-10 coding system due to be implemented on October 1st. The codes will not only detail the exact body part getting treatment, but how you were injured, where you were when you got injured, and possibly what your physical appearance and behaviors are.

These codes, part of a government and corporate Big Data research agenda, will allow end-to-end profiling and analysis of patients and doctors. Your data will be placed on an international platform and broadly available to outsiders. Contact your U.S Representative and tell them to support HR 2126, the Cutting Costly Codes Act.

Presented daily by Twila Brase, President, Citizens’ Council for Health Freedom.
