Obama Hunts Millennials for Obamacare

The Obama administration is doing everything possible to push people into Obamacare so that it can survive. Millennials are being targeted. The administration plans to comb through tax records to find 18 to 34 year olds who paid a penalty for failing to buy insurance last year. Then they will reach out to them by email and through ads.

Because the young and healthy refused to sign up for Obamacare but older, sicker adults signed up in droves, insurers lost money. The administration’s most successful strategy is talking about the tax penalty. But many young people already know the cost of Obamacare can be more than its tax penalty. Let’s repeal Obama’s legacy law!
