Tomorrow is the 239th Anniversary of Freedom

Tomorrow is Independence Day in America. The 4th of July is the day we celebrate the publication of the Declaration of Independence from England. This year is the 239th anniversary of We the People separating to create a more perfect union.

On July 2, 1776 there was a secret vote for independence. The Declaration was published two days later on July 4th. On July 8, it was given a public reading. I guess they didn’t have the Internet, Facebook or Twitter. The signing of the Declaration didn’t begin until August 2nd. Citizens’ Council for Health Freedom is working every day to protect citizens from the tyranny of big government. Please donate the next time you’re online.

Happy Independence Day!
