July 10, 2012

Obama Tax on Inactivity

This is the second of five broadcasts on the Supreme Court’s flawed Obamacare ruling. Chief Justice Roberts said that the penalty for not purchasing government-approved health insurance is a tax on inactivity, a tax on failure to act as the government mandates. He told us that nothing in the Constitution guarantees that people may avoid taxes for inactivity.

Well what could this new taxing power prescribed by the Supreme Court mean in your future. Will you be taxed for failing to have a fitness club membership, for failing to get certain preventive care, or for failing to eat vegetables? How far could this go?