The Federal Government Is Tracking Your Credit Card Transactions

The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, the brainchild of the liberal Senator Elizabeth Warren, has 12 data-mining programs to collect and monitor information from nearly 600 million personal credit-card accounts on a monthly basis, writes Newt Gingrich in The Wall Street Journal. By 2016, this agency wants to have 95% of all credit card purchases under surveillance.

Imagine the profile of you that these bureaucrats are creating. They know where you shop, when you shop, where and when you travel, your clinic, your hospital, your hotel, your favorite coffee, your pharmacy of choice, your preferred gas stations, magazines and charities. Tell Congress to shut down this agency and its Fourth Amendment violations.
