Is Your Medical Record on the Grid?

The Feds have spent $564 million to establish on-the-grid health information exchanges for medical records in every state, accessible to hospitals, health plans, clinics and more. Vermont’s exchange requires patient consent, but bureaucrats want to eliminate consent and put everyone’s data on the grid unless they opt-out. That’s just wrong.

Today, if Vermonter’s don’t sign a consent form their data is not connected to or flowing over the online government grid. So where is your data? View this radio Minute on our home page – cchfreedom.org – to learn about your state’s exchange. Find out if you can opt out to protect your privacy. Again, go to cchfreedom.org

“Patients may have to opt-out of VT HIE to not share data,” Marla Durben Hirsch, FierceHealthcare, July 6, 2016.
