Obamacare Now in Constitutional Record

Last week, the U.S. House voted 244-185 to repeal Obamacare. The name of the bill was the “Repeal of Obamacare Act.” This means that the word “Obamacare” will be forever in the Congressional record. The president will not likely be pleased even though it’s his name. It is after all the Repeal of Obamacare Act. There’s nothing supportive in the language.

But since he’s trying to nationalize health care in America, he should not be surprised by this use of his name. The Senate will not vote on the bill so Obamacare is still temporarily the law. Meanwhile more states are refusing to implement it and November 6th is coming.
