Judicial Tax-Writing

Today is the first of five broadcasts on the Supreme Court’s flawed Obamacare ruling. I was in the Court that day. I was delighted when the individual mandate was ruled unconstitutional. Puzzled when Chief Justice Roberts said, “But that is not the end of the matter.” And shocked when he ruled the penalty for not buying health insurance to be a “tax.” Then Justice Kennedy read the dissent. He said the majority engaged in judicial tax-writing, finding a tax where there is none. The word tax cannot be found in the mandate section. The word penalty is mentioned 18 times. Tune in tomorrow.
