Prove it or Lose it

The federal government is sending letters to those whose citizenship and immigration status or their income eligibility is in question. The administration says the 310,000 people who have not responded to calls, letters and emails asking for data will lose their Obamacare coverage at the end of September unless they respond by September 5th.

Almost half of the enrollees with questionable citizenship are from Florida and Texas. Obamacare allows only “lawfully present” immigrants to buy Obamacare coverage. The administration is pursuing those who enrolled on the federal exchange. State exchanges are handling these kinds of cases on their own.
