States Refuse Obamacare Exchange

States are not moving forward with Obamacare. They are refusing to install its centerpiece, the health insurance Exchange. Only 13 states say they will do it. But according to the Wall Street Journal, they’ve got a long way to go beyond the general requirements of passing a law or issuing an executive order.

There are 109 Exchange milestones and Massachusetts, which has a six-year-old Exchange, has only met 56 percent of these requirements. New York has met only 6 percent. Eighteen states have completely refused. The Center on Budget and Policy Priorities says the Exchange is dead in 29 states. All good news if you like freedom.
