Four Reasons to Say NO to Exchange

Here are four reasons to say “no” to Obama’s state-run exchange. First, the law penalizes employers $2,000 per employee if even one employee uses the exchange. No exchange. No penalties. Second, exchanges will cost $10 million to $100 million per year to operate requiring higher taxes or higher premiums. This is the cost the feds want to impose on state taxpayers.

Third, the feds have no money to build the federal exchange they are threatening to impose on states. Thus far the U.S. House has refused to give the feds the $750 million they want to build it. Fourth, there is no such thing as a state exchange. Every state-run exchange is under federal law.
