CCHF Publishes Health Surveillance Report

Citizens’ Council for Health Freedom has published a ground-breaking study on health surveillance. It includes a report, tables of state laws and rules, and interesting raw data. To show the depth of patient-tracking, we examine four surveillance systems that exist in most states: birth defect surveillance, cancer registries, vaccination registries and newborn screening.

These are taxpayer-funded birth to death systems. In many states, the databases are linked together at birth to create child health profiles that will become adult health profiles. Go to cchfreedom.org and learn about health surveillance in your state. Then tell your legislators to have the data destroyed unless consent was given.
