Bargain Basement Health Care

Daniel Henninger in the Wall Street Journal writes about what he calls “Mr. Obama’s Middle Class.” I don’t think it’s the same as what you and I think of as the middle class. But what I like is his description of the middle class and Obamacare which he calls “the crown-jewel of the Obama presidency.”

Daniel writes, “Designed on a computer screen by academic architects, ObamaCare will direct millions of middle-class or poor people into public health-care exchanges or expanded Medicaid. None of this law’s deliverers, from the president himself on down, would be caught dead sending their own families to the bargain-basement medical care in these plans.” He’s right. Refuse to enroll in Obamacare.
