Do What Danny Gorky Did

I was listening to a presentation by singer Danny Gorky during a broadcast hosted by Medi-Share, one of the nation’s largest health-sharing organizations. Danny made a name for himself on American Idol, and now has a singing career. His third child was born just weeks ago, but it’s not his last.

When asked about why he was joining Medi-Share, he shared his frustration with insurers. Because he and his wife didn’t know he had to tell the insurer that they might have children, they had to bear the entire cost of their first two pregnancies. He was excited to join Medi-Share. With open enrollment just around the corner, consider dropping insurance and joining a health-sharing organization.
