Obamacare Angst Will Rise Again

Obamacare has slipped from the spotlight as elections heat up. Everything seems pretty quiet on the Obamacare front. But those in the know on Obamacare, including federal officials and HealthPlan executives, expect drama to start on November 15, when enrollment begins again. For example, the back-end of the federal exchange, where eligibility is determined, still isn’t built.

But the biggest drama will start in 2017 when Obamacare’s redistribution dollars, paid to the health plans to keep premiums low, are gone. All gone. Then the full price of Obamacare-mandated policies will emerge and it won’t be pretty. But that is when Obamacare will be ripe for repeal. Expect it and work for it today.
