Medicare Given Your Data

Welcome to the Health Freedom Minute. This is Twila Brase, president of Citizens’ Council for Health Freedom.

The Medicare Administration has a new website called Physician Compare. It lists whether the doctor participates in the government’s quality reporting system. If doctors give up your data to the government, they can earn a 1 percent bonus.

This system has nothing to do with quality. It is government monitoring pure and simple.

That’s why I like to say, privacy is not about privacy. Privacy is about control. He who holds the data makes the rules. Once government holds all your data, they will make all the rules including what kind of treatment is available, and what kind of doctors you can and cannot have.

Government plans to access your medical records in real-time once the national health information network is set up. Tell your members of Congress what you think about this.
