January 18, 2011

Obamacare Vote Tomorrow?

Welcome to the Health Freedom Minute. This is Twila Brase, president of Citizens’ Council for Health Freedom.

Tomorrow, the U.S. House will vote on the repeal of Obamacare. Will it pass? Likely. The Republicans expect to get two-thirds of the House voting for its repeal.

Liberals aren’t happy even if the vote may never be taken in the Senate. Chuck Todd at MSNBC last week complained that the GOP is “looking backwards” by tackling Obamacare so soon. However, if liberals aren’t happy, conservatives should smile.

One pundit on MSNBC claimed that Middle America could care less about health care. Really?

On December 27th, the Rasmussen Reports reported that 60 percent of likely voters support Repeal of Obamacare. In addition, 61 percent expect the law to increase health care costs.

Call your member of Congress today!

Listen again at healthfreedomminute.net.

Sources:

The Repeal Bill

“Rasmussen Reports 60% of Likely Voters Support Repeal of ObamaCare,” National Right to Life News Today!, December 27, 2010.