Paying for the Young with Cuts to the Old

Welcome to the Health Freedom Minute. This is Twila Brase president of Citizens’ Council on Health Care.

Last Friday, 18 of us sat around a table at the State Capitol. We’d been invited by the Center of the American Experiment to a roundtable discussion with John Goodman from the National Center for Policy Analysis.

John said 7.4 million seniors are expected to lose access to their Medicare Advantage plan over the next 10 years as ObamaCare cuts it by $200 billion. Forty percent pf Minnesota’s seniors are on Medicare Advantage. Those that keep this HMO-type coverage can expect steep cuts in benefits or hefty increases in premiums, or both.

You may remember that 32 million uninsured people will soon get coverage. John points out, “We’re paying for new insurance benefits for young people by cutting benefits for old people.
