March 24, 2011

WHO Doesn’t Go Far Enough

Welcome to the Health Freedom Minute. This is Twila Brase, president of Citizens' Council for Health Freedom.

The World Health Organization has been criticized for its handling of the swine flu scare. Note that H1N1 killed fewer than those who die each year from seasonal flu, most of the public refused the vaccine, and millions of doses were thrown out.

A new report says the organization had a “needlessly complex” definition of a pandemic, altered website pages without explanation, kept its adviser’s names secret and discontinued regular press conferences after declaring a pandemic.

I would add failure to reveal vaccine risks. In 1976, more people died from the vaccine than from swine flu, and 500 cases of Guillain-Barre Syndrome were detected. Although health departments immediately began collecting data on Guillain-Barre this time, they did not discuss the vaccine risks.

Listen again at healthfreedomminute.net.

“Swine flu jab link to killer nerve disease: Leaked letter reveals concern of neurologists over 25 deaths in America,” Jo Macfarlane, Mail Online, August 15, 2009.