July 14, 2010

CEO's Want ObamaCare Dollars

Welcome to the Health Freedom Minute. This is Twila Brase president of Citizens’ Council on Health Care.

Last week the Star Tribune had an article written by Dr. Robert Meiches, CEO of the Minnesota Medical Association, and Lawrence Massa, CEO of the Minnesota Hospital Association.

They called for the next governor to expand Medicaid using ObamaCare dollars. But Medicaid pays poorly, and the ObamaCare dollars run out. Once they’re gone, it won’t be easy to end coverage for the 20,000 new Medicaid recipients. Some federal courts have refused to let States do it.

The CEOs should have suggested tapping into the philanthropic community to provide charity medical care for the truly needy. Instead, they advocated for raiding the pockets of taxpayers, making it more difficult for working families to pay their own health care bills.

Find this broadcast at healthfreedomminute.net.