August 27, 2010

Swedish Mom Cleans Own Hospital Room

Welcome to the Health Freedom Minute. This is Twila Brase president of Citizens’ Council on Health Care.

Sweden claims a long history of delivering high quality, economically viable health care. Their website says the Swedish system has ranked at or near the top of global comparisons.

However, several days ago an English publication of Swedish news reported that a mother with a new baby delivered by C-section got a big surprise when she got up to go home.¹

She’d already spent two days being responsible for reminding her nurses when her medications were due. Now, Elin Andersson’s midwife informed her that despite major abdominal surgery, she, had one more job to do. Elin had to clean out her hospital room and she had to clean up her hospital bed.

Is this quality you can believe in?

Find this broadcast at healthfreedomminute.net

¹ “Mother told to clean own room after caesarean” The Local. Aug 22, 2010.

The Health Freedom Minute is heard weekdays in Minnesota at 7:03 a.m., 11:03 a.m., 2:03 p.m. and 5:03 p.m. on WWTC AM1280 The Patriot.