Will Rising Health Insurance Premiums Impoverish Us?

The price of employer-sponsored health insurance is going up. In 2024, employers paid nearly $12,000 per employee and employees paid just over $2,800. Next year, the employer's cost of providing health benefits is expected to rise 7.8 percent. This means less money in your pocket. The cost per employee could be as high as $16,000 for the employers.

What if you got all those dollars in cash and used them to buy an affordable major-medical policy that paid you directly for catastrophic and insurable events? Obamacare outlawed these affordable policies. Let's bring them back before health insurance impoverishes each and every one of us.
