Trump Was on The Right Path

President Trump said, “The only healthcare” he will support “is sending the money directly back to the people,” not to the health plans. He says, “This is the only way to have great Healthcare in America.”

Republicans may have agreed but when Trump suggested extending the taxpayer-funded middle class Obamacare subsidies for two more years, Republicans pushed back and Trump’s plan is now on hold.

Trump was on the right path when he pushed for cash in hand, but if all people can buy is a health plan rather than real insurance – the affordable major medical indemnity policies that cover catastrophic and insurable events—prices will still be high. Tell Trump to bring back real insurance from real health insurance companies. Leave the health plans behind.
