Reconsider IRS Refunds

According to Homeland Security, biometrics are the “automated recognition of individuals based on their biological and behavioral characteristics,” including facial geometry and fingerprints.

In 2022, the IRS began to require live facial scans to access tax records. The Social Security Administration was next. But word got out and the public rebelled. The IRS had to retreat and deleted all the photos people were forced to submit. But it’s still part of the big plan.

So why do so few refuse the TSA camera or the REAL ID? Don’t let the government gain biometric control over your life. To keep the IRS from ever withholding your money, consider switching from a tax refund to paying in at tax season.
