Thank Trump. Tell Congress to Shut Down AHRQ

Have you heard of the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality, also known as AHRQ. A.H.R.Q. AHRQ was created to control the practice of medicine from government cubicles. Health services researchers write protocols that payers use to control your doctor's treatment decisions.

In 1994, AHRQ actively advocated for Hillarycare. As a result, Republicans put it on the hit list to eliminate. But, instead, they reduced its funding and changed its name. So, it came back to control your doctor.

Thankfully, the first Trump administration defunded AHRQ's clinical guidelines website. Then, this July, the Trump administration pulled most funding for most AHRQ grants. Call the White House Switchboard and tell Trump thank you. Now Congress should pull the plug and repeal the law.
