So Why Would Anyone Take a Covid Shot?

People with Covid shot injuries live desperate invisible lives. During a Canadian inquiry, Vienna Demeduk testified that the day after her only Covid shot, right before her daily 20K run, she felt a sudden pop in the back of her head. She'd had a stroke and instantly lost her sight and ability to walk. Today, she can walk and see, but her brain is filled with blood clots leading to 12 strokes thus far.

After her stroke, everyone whispered but the radiology techs acknowledged the shot injury. Vienna said, "literally no one has your back. You feel like you're in the twilight zone." She's had almost no medical follow up and doctors say they won't do anything. She says it's a death sentence. So, why would anyone take a Covid shot? Why?
